Highly Important to Farmers.
THE ONLY EXCLUSIVE FARMERS' INSURANCE COMPANY IN THE WEST.

THE MADISON MUTUAL,
LOCATED AT MADISON, WISCONSIN.

THIS Company continues to take risks upon Farm Property only, consisting of buildings of all kinds, including barns, and household furniture, grain in barns, live stock, and other property, and also crops, and other most other responsible companies.

Losses promptly paid at the office as soon as proof is made thereon.

We have a lot of property for the interest of the Farmers to insure by themselves, their property being less hazardous than any other, consequently they will have no losses upon their own of the same class, and all will be on an equal footing.

Experience has shown that two-thirds, if not three-fourths of all the fires that occur are upon stores, taverns, mills, shops and such like property. In this company all such property is rejected positively, by written contract.

Farmers, look to your own interest, and insure in a Farmers' Company.

We have been doing business a little over three years, and we have not been obliged to assess our premium notes, and for the first four years we have not had a single dollar loss, though doing a large and prosperous business, which we believe to be without a parallel in the history of insurance.

The best of references given us to the responsibility of the company.

Highly Important to Farmers.

THE ONLY EXCLUSIVE FARMERS' INSURANCE COMPANY IN THE WEST.

LOCATED AT MADISON, WISCONSIN.

This Company continues to take risks upon

Farm Property only, consisting of buildings of all kinds, household furniture, grain and stock, and every other insurable property, at rates than most other responsible companies.

All losses promptly paid at the office as soon as proof is made thereon.

We believe it to be for the interest of the farmers to insure by themselves, their property being less hazardous than any other, consequently you will have no losses other your own of the same class, and all will be on an equal footing.

Experience has shown that two-thirds, if not three-fourths of all the fires that occur are upon stores, taverns, mills, shops and such like property. In this company all such property is rejected positively, by LETTERING THEM CLOSE.

Farmers, look to your own interest, and insure in a Farmers' Company.

We have been doing business a little over three years, and we have not been obliged to assess our premium notes, and for the last four months we have not had a single dollar loss, though doing a large and prosperous business, which we believe to be without a parallel in the history of insurance.

The best of references given as to the responsibility of the company.

Highly Important to Farmers.

THE ONLY EXCLUSIVE FARMERS' INSURANCE COMPANY IN THE WEST.

THE MADISON MUTUAL,

LOCATED AT MADISON, WISCONSIN.

THIS Company continues to take risks upon Farm Property only, consisting of buildings of all kinds, crops, and household furniture, grain in barns and stacks, and every other kind of insurable property at the most reasonable rates.

All losses promptly paid at the office as soon as proof is made thereon.

It is to be for the interest of the farmers to insure by themselves, their property being less hazardous than any other, consequently you will have no losses on any one of the same class, and all will be on an equal footing.

Experience has shown that two-thirds, if not three-fourths of all the fires that occur are upon stores, taverns, mills, shops and such like property. In this company all such property is rejected positively, by Letting it alone.

Farmers, look to your own interest, and insure in a Farmers' Company.

We have been doing business a little over three years, and we have not been obliged to assess our premium rates, and for the last fourteen months we have not had a single dollar loss, though doing a large and prosperous business, which we believe to be without a parallel in the history of insurance.

THE TOAST.

BY WALTER SCOTT.

The feast is o'er! No brimming wine
In lordly cup is seen to shine
Before each eager guest,
And silence fills the crowded hall,
As deep as when the herald's call
Thrills in the royal bower.

Then up arose the noble host,
And smiling cried, "A toast! a toast!"
To all our ladies fair.
Here, before all, I pledge the name
Of Stanton's proud and beauteous dame—
The Lady Gundamer."

Then to his feet each gallant sprang,
And joyous was the shout that rung,
As Stanley gave the word:
And every cup was raised on high
Nor ceased the loud and gladome cry,
Till Stanley's voice was heard.

"Enough, enough," he smiling said,
And lowly bent his haughty head.
"That all may have their due,
Now each in turn must play his part,
And pledge the lady of his heart.
Like gallant knight and true!"

Then one by one each guest sprang up
And drained in turn the brimming cup,
And named the loved one's name;
And each, as hand on high he raised,
His lady's grace or beauty praised,
Her constancy and fame.

'Tis now St. Leon's turn to rise;
On him were fixed those countless eyes—
A gallant knight was he;
Dressed in armor, armed by all,
Far famed in lady's bower and hall,
The flower of chivalry.

St. Leon raised his kindling eye,
And lifts the sparkling cup on high:
"I drink to one," he said,
"Whose image never may depart,
Deep graven on this grateful heart,
Till memory be dead."

To one whose love for me shall last
When lighter passions long have passed,
So holy 'tis and true,
To one whose love shall longer dwell,
More deeply felt, more keenly felt,
Than any pledge to you."

Each guest up started at the word,
And laid a hand upon his sword,
With fury-dimmed eyes;
And Stanley said, "We crave the name,
Proud knight, of this most peerless dame,
Whose love you count so high."

St. Leon paused, as if he would
Not breathe her name in careless mood
Thus lightly to another;
Then bent his noble head, as though
To give that word the reverence due,
And gently said, "My Mother!"

From the flag of our Union,
JUST CHANGE IT.
A SKECH FOR NEW BEGINNERS IN LIFE.

BY AUSTIN C. BURDICK.

[Concluded from Saturday.]

At length the end of the quarter came round.
The first bill paid was the rent, which amounted to thirty-one dollars. The next was the butcher's bill, which came to thirty-six dollars.
Charles was astonished to see how the meat bill
footed up. But when he saw how many steaks
he had had at seventeen cents per pound the cause of wonder was at an end. Next he paid
the baker's bill, which was thirteen dollars.

When he came home in the evening he had paid
all his bills except the grocery bill.
"My Mr. Waldron sent in his bill to-day," his wife said, after supper.

"Ah did he? let me see it."
Hannah brought it, and Charles looked at it.
He was astonished at its length, and when he face turned a shade pale. It footed up just sixty-five dollars—an average of five dollars per week!

"This is impossible!" he uttered as he gazed upon it. But he examined the different articles, and he could remember when he ordered them. Those things which cost "only a dollar," looked very innocent when viewed alone, but in the aggregate they had a different appearance.

"How much shall I lay up?" he repeated.
"Not much. Get the slate and let us reckon up." Charles was resolved to be frank about the matter, and let his wife know all.

The slate was brought. First Hannah put down one hundred and fifty-six dollars as the quarter's wages. Then came the rent, and the butcher and the baker.

"Now you may put down twelve dollars for this chain,—and twelve dollars for sundries,—
that means cigars, tobacco, nuts, beer, soda, theater tickets, and such like things. Now take all that from my quarter's wages, and see how much remains."

Hannah performed the sum, and gave fifty-
two dollars as the result.
"Fifty-two dollars?" uttered Charles, sinking back into his chair. "And we have not bought our articles of clothing nor of furniture. Fifty-two dollars with which to pay sixty-five. There is thirteen dollars short this quarter, and I had meant to save thirty, at least."

"Well, it's no use to mourn over it," said
the wife, in a cheerful tone, for she saw that her husband felt badly. "Let's commence again.
There's nothing like trying, you know."

For some moments Charles remained silent.
He gazed first upon the bill he held in his hand,
then upon the figures on the slate, and then up on the floor. At last he spoke. There was a peculiar light in his eyes, and a flush upon his countenance.

"Hannah, I see where the trouble is and I must freely admit that I have been wrong.—
I had paid for everything as I bought it. I should not have been where I now am in pecuniary matters. You were right. I see it all
now. I have not estimated the value of money as I ought. Let me once get up again to where I began, and I will do differently. I must stop down to the store this evening and pay Mr. Waldron what I owe, and the rest I will pay him
when I am able."

"That matter can be easily settled," said Hannah, with a bright, happy look. "I have more than enough to make up the amount of that bill. It is money I had when we were married. Wait a moment."

Charles protested most earnestly against taking his wife's money, but she would listen to no argument on that subject. It was her will, and he must submit. So he went down and paid up the grocery bill, and on the way home he sold his gold chain for fourteen dollars. He felt happier when he got the old black cord once
more about his neck, and he had money now
to commence the quarter with.

On the next Monday morning the young man
went into the meat store to send home a piece of beef for dinner.

"How much will you have?" asked the butcher.

"O, three or four—"

Charles got thus far, and then he stopped.—
He had always been in the habit of ordering an indefinite quantity, and leaving the butcher to cut it off at the highest figure, and charge the highest price; and then he remembered how much was usually wasted.

"Let me have two pounds," he said. He stopped and saw it weighed, and then paid for it.

When he went home at noon he found that his two pounds of beef had made enough, and there was none to waste. The next morning
he went to the store. Mr. Waldron had some nice figs just come in, which he showed. They were only a shilling a pound. For a moment Charles hesitated, but as he remembered that he had got to pay for all he bought he concluded not to take them. He found that things were not so enticing when it required cash to get them as when the payment could be postponed.
He paid for what he bought and went his way:
and thus things went on through the week.—
When it came Saturday night he knew that all the money in his pocket was his own, after deducting the rent. That evening he went over to the market with Wilkins, and bought as much meat and vegetables as he thought would last him through the week. He found that he had made a saving of at least twenty per cent.
this operation, and when the opportunity
offered he made the same saving in other matters.

At the end of that quarter Charles Matthews did not have to get any slate. He paid his house rent, and then he found that he had thirty-five dollars left in his pocket. That was all his—he did not owe a penny of it.

"Ah, Hannah," said he, as he held the money in his hand and looked at it, "now I see how easy it is for a man to be wrong and his wife right. This money all comes from paying as I go along. It is just as easy and simple to say—
'just charge it,' and a man can easily buy things under such circumstances, but when the day of reckoning comes these three simple words, that sound so innocent when spoken, are found to be costly things. I could not have believed that a man would purchase so many more useless articles simply because he could have them charged. But I see it now, and if I refused to follow your advice at first, I have gained experience
enough to lead me to follow it the more expli-
cantly now."

Charles Matthews never again allowed himself to be led away by the credit system; but he followed the cash rule punctually, and the consequence has been that he can not only now buy any quantity of produce, wood, coal, etc., at cheap cash prices, but he has cut out the expense of house-rent, for he owns a snug little cottage in the suburbs, and it is all paid for.

A RUSH FOR SHILLING LANDS.—A correspondent of the Missouri Republican, writing from Shawneetown, under date of September 21st,
gives the following account of the rush at the land office in that place, for lands under the graduation bill:

"The 'graduation' or 'bit' land act, went into operation on Monday last, and early in the morning our quiet little place showed signs of much excitement, and at 8 o'clock in the morning it was determined to form a line, take the name of all persons present, and then call them up in rotation. About 125 were on hand; on Tuesday, about 250; Wednesday, 350; and Thursday, 600. About fifty entries are made daily, taking about 12,000 acres of land, and I presume the excitement will continue till all the land in the district, worth a 'bit,' is taken;
but whether it is all taken for 'actual settlement' or 'cultivation,' I do not pretend to say.
Every man puts his own construction upon the
oath, and it depends much upon the material their consciences are made of. They all seem to think that they are entitled to it, and 'Uncle Sam' is rich enough to stand it. It will help the country in way of taxes, and it is as well to let it go. I noticed in the crowd several ladies,
some who have lost their 'lords,' and others
who have never found them, but are willing to have a farm. I also noticed some of the sons of Africa."

ANOTHER BARABO CASE.—At North Prairie,
in the town of Geneseo, on the night of the 21st
inst., a number of young women broke into a grocery and destroyed a quantity of liquor, broke decanters, tumblers, &c. The circumstances relating to this affair, are as follows:

At Mr. —, several young women, were engaged during the day, in picking hops. At night there was a "jollification," or as the old people used to say, a spree, and as a matter of course, a goodly number of the neighboring lads
were on hand to take care of the lasses. During the festive scene the "fair ones" concluded
that a certain grocery in the neighborhood
should be visited, and some of the commodities disposed of in "Baraboo style." The ladies allied out en masse, armed with suitable weapons to accompany the grand design. The gentlemen accompanied them as a body-guard, to the scene of action, and took positions so as to protect the besieging forces from any interruption. The owner of the property attempted to drive off the intruders, but was kept off by the lads, until the women had wreaked vengeance
on the liquor, then the whole besieging forces
marched away, the male portion acting as a rear guard.—Waukesha Democrat.

HUMAN BODIES FOUND AT SEA.—Captain
Kloegether, of the ship Hindoo, which arrived at this port a few days since from Bremen, met with quite an accident on the passage over.—
When forty days at sea, the weather being clear,
an open boat was despatched in the distance, with
as it was supposed, no one in it. The captain immediately bore down upon it, when, on examination, it was found to contain four human bodies, or, in other words skeletons, as the flesh
had been entirely stripped from their bones.—
The boat was filled with water, but being of a light, airy structure, had continued to float for days, perhaps months, upon the turbulent deep.
In the boat were a large number of fish, which no doubt preyed upon the bodies. A few remnants of clothing were found in the frail bark,
but so much torn as to preclude the possibility of telling whether they belonged to seamen or passengers. There can be no doubt that the bodies were those of some of the many unfortunate who were wrecked in some one of the missing vessels. Is it not probable that they were a part of the crew or passengers of the missing
steamer City of Glasgow? Captain Kloegether still retains the boat. It can be seen on board his ship at Chase's wharf. The remains of the bodies, on the arrival of the ship at this port were decently interred.—Baltimore Patri-

BYARD TAYLOR.—We learn by a private note
from Mr. Nichols, of Cleveland, to whom Mr.
Taylor was represented as having farmed himself out for the lecture season, that the report,
as we surmised, is not a true, though it had some foundation.

Mr. Nichols says in the Cleveland Herald of the 27th:

I beg leave to state that there is no engagement between us that will prevent his lecturing
as last season, before such societies. It is true
I am to accompany Mr. T. the coming fall and winter, commencing October 15th, at Montreal
his first lecture. But it is the wish and expectation of Mr. T. that in all cities where societies are established, to lecture before them—and
where there are no societies established, of course
other arrangements will be made. This communication is simply to place Mr. T. in a right position before the literary societies of the west,
that they may not be prevented from extending invitations to him to deliver lectures before them.

WHIG COUNTY CONVENTION.—A call for a whig county convention, to nominate a county
ticket, appears in our columns this morning.—
We think it would have been better introduced
under the sanction of some responsible names,
or if it had stated by what committee it purports to be called. To-morrow we shall have comments upon the movement it contemplates.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE COMMON COUNCIL.—At
the meeting of the council Saturday evening,
the jury to award damages in opening an alley
on the river in the rear of the brick stores on Main street, reported, and the council made an order confirming the award. Mr. Cummings appeared as the attorney for Thomas Lappin and M. C. Smith, and gave notice of an appeal from the award.

Among the accounts allowed was one of $114
for altering the engraved plate for the city
bonds and coupons, and printing 161 copies.—
The alteration was from the Valley to the Southern Wisconsin railroad, and the bonds printed
are to be issued to the latter, under the consolidation arrangement.

The Elk Horn Reporter has commenced
a personal and highly abusive warfare upon Judge Spooner, the republican candidate for congress in the first district. We have never heard Mr. Spooner's integrity and worth as a citizen called in question before, and presume
we move or stir at this attack, at this time, will be sufficiently understood to be properly appreciated. As a general thing when a man receives a nomination for office, no matter how fair his character may have stood before, he at once becomes the object of the vituperation, personal malice and low abuse of a certain class of editor
who to say the least are no ornament to the profession. This has become so well understood that proper allowance is usually made, and no
more of the charges are believed than come substantiated by better evidence. We do not believe such treatment will reduce Judge Spooner's vote, and it seems to us highly reprehensible that this wholesale defamation should be resorted to when even that poor excuse for slandering an upright citizen is not likely to be available.

WASHBURN, OR WASHBURN.—The Mineral Point Tribune settles the question in reference to the proper spelling of the name of the republican candidate for congress in this district,
deciding "by authority" that the final e should be omitted. We were led the other way by observing how the Illinois papers published the name of his brother.

THE WEBSTER ESTATE.—The Boston Journal says, that Fletcher Webster has removed into the house of his late distinguished father at Marshfield. The estate offered for sale is near by, and was occupied by the son till lately.

The farm at Franklin, N. H., was advertised for sale by the administrators, in accordance with the usual form, to settle the estate. It may not go out of the family.

The Racine Democrat opens an article
of some length with the following sentence:—

"Whenever the democratic party has lost ground
it has done so from its fearless and uncon-promising adherence to principle." The idea of the democracy in these days suffering for its devotion to principle is certainly a funny one.—

The party was never burdened with that article,
and in these days of its degeneracy, it is ridiculous to talk seriously of its possessing any. But even supposing the editor was not jesting when he uttered the above, it is contrary to one of the cardinal doctrines professed in the democratic creed, which is that the decision of the majority is right and that it is democratic to acquiesce
in this decision. The above, however, places
the people in the wrong and the democracy
always right. Perhaps this idea will be incorporated into the new creed of the young democracy.

DODGE COUNTY BANK.—This institution is now fully organized and operations are already commenced, as will be seen by reference to an advertisement in to-day's paper. Its officers are
J. A. Nehrig, president; Henry C. Frentz, cashier. A good lot has been purchased by these gentlemen on the south side of main street, adjoining Hoyt & Smith's new store, on which they are erecting a substantial stone edifice for banking uses. Until this is completed, business will be transacted at the office of Dr. Smith.

—Beaver Dam Republican.

A STRONG DEMOCRATIC COUNTY.—Only one
whig vote was polled in Woodbury Co., Iowa,
at the recent election in that state.—Chicago Times.

And only seven votes were polled in the whole county, it having just been organized.
We suppose our neighbor has no fault to find
with the whig vote in the other counties of Iowa.—Chicago Journal.

STATE PRISON AT WAUPUN.—The editor of the Fond du Lac Union has recently spent an hour or two, of his own accord, in the state prison at Waupun, and gives the following account of the new edifice in progress there:

The south wing of the prison, which comprises the building now contracted for, is 204 ft.
in length, and 54 ft. in width, with an octagon tower at each corner of the south end, 45 ft. in circumference. It is four stories high, and stands
upon a solid rock with a foundation wall
4 ft. in thickness. The stone is of a superior quality of limestone, nicely cut and laid in courses. The building is now ready for the laying of the cornice, which is to be carved stone,
and proportionate in dimensions to the size of the building. In the interior of this building and which is entirely disconnected from it, is a block of cells 172 ft. long, 22 ft. wide, and four stories high, containing 280 cells. This building also stands upon a rock, and is constructed of blocks of cut stone two feet in thickness.—
The partition walls between the cells are of brick and the floors of flat stone, each is large enough to cover an entire cell. The corridors are supported by cast iron arms securely set in the stone walls, and are provided with wrought iron railings. Each cell is furnished with fresh air
by means of a most approved ventilator. The roof is to be of tin, so that the building will be fire proof; indeed there is not combustible material enough in the whole of it to make a good sized bonfire.

This immense edifice will be completed within three weeks, being less than six months from the time the corner stone was laid. The rapidity and durability of the work are flattering testimonials of the energy and faithfulness of the contractor, Andrew Proudfit, and his employees.
When the whole establishment is completed,
and our friend Starks moves into it with his regular boarders, a few hours can be spent in the state prison pleasantly and profitably. Visitors will always find the warden, or his deputies,
pleased to see and conduct them through the establishment.

RAILROAD STORE!
I WISH to call attention, as I have done before, to the Goods I am receiving now at the Railroad Store, where all the newest Fashions, to suit the young and old, the richest and the cheapest goods in Janesville, will be sold.

My large and splendid stock of Lawns to show I'm ready to suit. The prices as all the Ladies know, is from sixpence to a shilling. The Fine Black Silks from Italy, and colored ones that's bright. Plaid, Grosgrains and Marcellines, and Florences to spare.

And such a lot of Hosiery, I know cannot be beat, And Gloves a great variety, they are so very neat! Just now, when Spring is coming, and every thing looks for a glove to suit the season, the color should be light.

There are other Goods for Ladies, of which they ought to know. That I keep in those blue boxes, and am always pleased to show. Such as Hand and Lined Edging, Cotton and Cambric, too. Muslin and Cambric Needlework, and Gimps of every hue.

These Underclothes and Children's I almost had forgotten. And Ladies' Needlework Collars, so beautifully wrought, With Bishop's Lawns and Cambrics, and Muslins fine and neat. And Lace to make old ladies' Caps and trim them off complete.

And to parry Sol's "director rays," I've Parasols of every price and color—they please the Ladies well! And Umbrellas cheap for Gent's, or so at least they say. For lots of them got carried off, on every rainy day.

Such lots of Combs for the million, of every sort and kind. To puff or curl or plait the hair, no better can you find. And every kind of Buttons for dresses, coats and vests. To sell by the gross or dozen—they are the very best.

And for Gentlemen and little Boys I have Fashionable Hats. Silk, Beaver, Leghorn, Panama, and cloth and leather Caps. And for infants, Hats with feathers and ribbons gay and bright. And little Caps with tassels dark, orange, blue and white.

I have stacks of Linen, of yellow, brown and white. And every other kind, of Summer Goods that's right. To make up into coats and pantaloons and vests. As large a stock as any, that ever was brought West.

They say long advertisements, are not the ofttest and that most may be meant, as oft, when least is said. In view of this, I'll close my bill, and here I invite you all. Whenever you come to Janesville, be sure and give me a call.

Janesville, June 8th, 1854. FRA P. BALLOU.

THE TOAST.

BY WALTER SCOTT.

The feast is over! Now brimming wine
In lordly cups is seen to shine
Before each eager guest,
And silence fills the crowded hall,
As deep as when the herald's call
Thrills in the royal bower.

Then up arose the noble host,
And smiling cried, "A toast! a toast!"
To all our ladies fair.
Here, before all, I pledge the name
Of St. Leon's noble and beautiful dame—
The Lady Glandemere!"

Then to his feet each gallant sprang,
And joyous was the shout that rang,
As Stanley gave the word:
And every cup was raised on high
Nor ceased the loud and gladsome cry,
Till Stanley's voice was heard.

"Enough, enough," he smiling said,
And lowly bent his haughty head,
"That all may have their due,
Now each in turn must play his part,
And pledge the lady of his heart,
Like gallant knight and true!"

Then one by one each guest sprung up
And drained in turn the brimming cup.
And named the loved one's name:
And each, as hand on high he raised,
His lady's name or beauty praised,
Her constancy and fame.

Then St. Leon's turn to rise:
Ours was the feast, and ours the eyes—
A gallant knight was he,
Famed by some, admired by all,
Far-rolled in lady's bower, and hall,
The flower of chivalry.

St. Leon raised his kindling eye,
And lit the sparkling cup on high:
"A drink to one," he said,
"Whose image in my crowded hall,
Deep graven on this grateful heart,
Till memory be dead."

To one whose love for me shall last
When lighter passions long have passed,
So holy 'tis and true,
To one whose love hath longer dwelt,
More deeply than I could feel,
Than any pledged to you."

Each guest upstared at the word,
And St. Leon's hand on his sword,
While fery-dashing eye,
And Stanley said: "We crave the name,
Proud knight, of this most peerless dame,
Whose love you count so high."

St. Leon passed, as if he would
Not breathe her name in careless mood
Thus lightly to another;
Then bent his noble head, as though
To give that word the reverence due,
And gently said, "My Mistress!"

JUST CHANGE IT.

A SKETCH FOR NEW BEGINNERS IN LIFE.

BY AUSTIN C. BURDICK.

At length the end of the quarter came round. The first bill paid was the rent, which amounted to thirty-one dollars. The next was the butcher's bill, which came to thirty-six dollars. Charles was astonished to see how the meat bill footed up. But when he saw how many steaks he had had at seventeen cents per pound the cause of wonder was at an end. Next he paid the baker's bill, which was thirteen dollars. When he came home in the evening he had paid all his bills except the grocery bill. Mr. Waldron sent in his bill to-day, his wife said, after supper.

"Ah did he? let me see it," Hannah brought it, and Charles looked at it. He was astonished at its length, and when he came to look at the bottom of the column his face turned a shade pale. It footed up just sixty-five dollars—an average of five dollars per week!

"This is impossible!" he uttered as he gazed upon it. But he examined the different articles, and he could remember when he ordered them. Those things which cost "only a dollar," looked very innocent when viewed alone, but in the aggregate they had a different appearance.

"How much shall I lay up this quarter, Charles?" kindly asked the wife, as she came and leaned over her husband's shoulder, and parted the hair on his forehead and smoothed it back.

"How much shall I lay up?" he repeated. "Not much. Got the state and let us reckon up." Charles was resolved to be frank about the matter, and let his wife know all.

The state was brought. First Hannah put down one hundred and fifty-six dollars as the quarter's wages. Then came the rent, and the butcher and the baker.

"Now you may put down twelve dollars for this chain,—and twelve dollars for sundries,—that means cigars, tobacco, nuts, beer, soda, theatre tickets, and such like things. Now take all that from my quarter's wages, and see how much remains."

Hannah performed the sum, and gave fifty-two dollars as the result.

"Fifty-two dollars!" uttered Charles, sinking back into his chair, "and we have not bought our articles of clothing nor of furniture. Fifty-two dollars with which to pay sixty-five. There is thirteen dollars short this quarter, and I had meant to save thirty, at least."

"Well, it's no use to mourn over it," said the wife, in a cheerful tone, for she saw that her husband felt badly. "Let's commence again. There's nothing like trying, you know."

For some moments Charles remained silent. He gazed first upon the bill he held in his hand, then upon the figures on the slate, and then upon the floor. At last he spoke. There was a peculiar light in his eyes, and a flush upon his countenance.

"Hannah, I see where the trouble is and I must freely admit that I have been wrong.—If I had paid for everything as I bought it I should not have been where I now am in pecuniary matters. You were right. I see it all now. I have not estimated the value of money as I ought. Let me once get up again to where I began, and I will do differently. I must step down to the store this evening and pay Mr. Waldron what I have, and the rest I will pay him when I am able."

"That matter can be easily settled," said Hannah, with a bright, happy look. "I have more than enough to make up the amount of that bill. It is money I had when we were married. Wait a moment."

Charles protested most earnestly against taking his wife's money, but she would listen to no argument on that subject. It was her will, and he must submit. So he went down and paid up the grocery bill, and on the way home he held his gold chain for fourteen dollars. He felt happier when he got the old black cord once more about his neck, and he had money now to commence the quarter with.

On the next Monday morning the young man went into the meat store to send home a piece of beef for dinner.

"How much will you have?" asked the butcher.

"Four, three or four—"

Charles got thus far, and then he stopped.—He had always been in the habit of ordering an indefinite quantity, and leaving the butcher to cut it off at the highest figure, and charge the highest price; and then he remembered how much was usually wasted.

"Let me have two pounds," he said. He stopped and saw it weighed, and then paid for it.

When he went home at noon he found that his two pounds of beef had made enough, and there was none to waste. The next morning he went to the store. Mr. Waldron had some nice figs just come in, which he showed. They were only a shilling a pound. For a moment Charles hesitated, but as he remembered that he had got to pay for all he bought he concluded not to take them. He found that things were not so enticing when it required cash to get them as when the payment could be postponed. He paid for what he bought and went his way: and thus things went on through the week.—When it came Saturday night he knew that all the money in his pocket was his own, after deducting the rent. That evening he went over to the market with Wilkins, and bought as much meat and vegetables as he thought would last him through the week. He found that he had made a saving of at least twenty per cent. by this operation, and when the opportunity offered he made the same saving in other matters.

At the end of that quarter Charles Matthews did not have to get any state. He paid his house rent, and then he found that he had thirty-five dollars left in his pocket. That was all his—he did not owe a penny of it.

"Ah, Hannah," said he, as he held the money in his hand and looked at it, "now I see how easy it is for a man to be wrong and his wife right. This money all comes from paying as I go along. It is very easy and simple to say—'just charge it,' and a man can easily buy things under such circumstances, but when the day of reckoning comes these three simple words, that sound so innocent when spoken, are found to be costly things. I could not have believed that a man would purchase so many more useless articles simply because he could have them charged."

Charles Matthews never again allowed himself to be led away by the credit system; but he followed the cash rule punctually, and the consequence has been that he can not only now buy any quantity of produce, wood, coal, etc., at cheap cash prices, but he has cut off the expense of house-rent, for he owns a snug little cottage in the suburbs, and it is all paid for.

A RUSH FOR SHILLING LANDS.—A correspondent of the Missouri Republican, writing from Shawanestown, under date of September 21st, gives the following account of the rush at the land office in that place, for lands under the graduation bill:

"The 'graduation' or 'bit' land act, went into operation on Monday last, and early in the morning our quiet little place showed signs of much excitement, and at 8 o'clock in the morning it was determined to form a line, take the name of all persons present, and then call them up in rotation. About 125 were on hand; on Tuesday, about 250; Wednesday, 350; and today, 600. About fifty entries are made daily, taking about 12,000 acres of land, and I presume the excitement will continue till all the land in the district, worth a 'bit,' is taken; but whether it is all taken for 'actual settlement and cultivation,' I do not pretend to say. Every man puts his own construction upon the oath, and it depends much upon the material their consciences are made of. They all seem to think that they are entitled to it, and 'Uncle Sam' is rich enough to stand it. It will help the country in way of taxes, and it is as well to let it go. I noticed in the crowd several ladies, some who have lost their 'lords,' and others who have never found them, but are willing to have a farm. I also noticed some of the sons of Africa."

ANOTHER BARABOO CASE.—At North Prairie, in the town of Genesee, on the night of the 21st inst., a number of young women broke into a grocery and destroyed a quantity of liquor, broke decanters, tumblers, &c. The circumstances relating to this affair, are as follows:

At Mr., several young women, were engaged during the day, in picking hops. At night there was a "jollification" or as the old people used to say, a spree, and as a matter of course, a goodly number of the neighboring lads were on hand to take care of the lasses. During the festive scene the "fair ones" concluded that a certain grocery in the neighborhood should be visited, and some of the commodities disposed of in "Baraboo style." The ladies sallied out en masse, armed with suitable weapons to accomplish the grand design. The gentlemen accompanied them as a body-guard, to the scene of action, and took positions so as to protect the besieging forces from any interruption. The owner of the property attempted to drive off the intruders, but was kept off by the lads, until the women had wreaked vengeance on the liquor, then the whole besieging forces marched away, the male portion acting as a rear guard.—Waukesha Democrat.

ECMAN BODIES FOUND AT SEA.—Captain Klockgether, of the ship Hindoo, which arrived at this port a few days since from Bremen, met with quite an accident on the passage over.—When forty days at sea, the weather being clear, an open boat was despatched in the distance, with, as it was supposed, no one in it. The captain immediately bore down upon it, when, on examination, it was found to contain four human bodies, or, in other words skeletons, as the flesh had been entirely stripped from their bones.—The boat was filled with water, but being of a light, airy structure, had continued to float for days, perhaps months, upon the turbulent deep. In the boat were a large number of fish, which no doubt preyed upon the bodies. A few remnants of clothing were found in the frail bark, but so much torn as to preclude the possibility of telling whether they belonged to seamen or passengers. There can be no doubt that the bodies were those of some of the many unfortunate who were wrecked in some one of the missing vessels. Is it not probable that they were a part of the crew or passengers of the missing steamer City of Glasgow? Captain Klockgether still retains the boat. It can be seen on board his ship at Chase's wharf. The remains of the bodies, on the arrival of the ship at this port were decently interred.—Baltimore Patriot.

BYARD TAYLOR.—We learn by a private note from Mr. Nichols, of Cleveland, to whom Mr. Taylor was represented as having furnished himself out for the lecture season, that the report, as we surmised, is not true, though it had some foundation.

Mr. Nichols says in the Cleveland Herald of the 27th:

I beg leave to state that there is no engagement between us that will prevent his lecturing as last season, before such societies. It is true I am to accompany Mr. T. the coming fall and winter, commencing October 15th, at Montreal his first lecture. But it is the wish and expectation of Mr. T. that in all cities where societies are established, to lecture before them—and where there are no societies established, of course other arrangements will be made. This communication is simply to place Mr. T. in a right position before the literary societies of the west, that they may not be prevented from extending invitations to him to deliver lectures before them.

By order of the County Committee.

Rock County Whig Convention.

The whigs of Rock county who are willing to be known as men who have not lost their identity with the party, (of their personal character, political associations and private conduct,) being vouched for, inasmuch as they are whigs) are requested to meet at their respective places of holding their elections, on Tuesday Oct. 10th inst., at 2 o'clock P. M. for the purpose of appointing delegates to above called convention, hereby called at the Court House in Janesville, the 14th day of Oct. inst. at 10 o'clock P. M., to nominate a whig county ticket.

By order of Committee.

For telegraphic news see third page.

WHIG COUNTY CONVENTION.—A call for a whig county convention, to nominate a county ticket, appears in our columns this morning.—We think it would have been better introduced under the sanction of some responsible names, or if it had stated by what committee it purports to be called. To-morrow we shall have comments upon the movement it contemplates.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE COMMON COUNCIL.—At the meeting of the council Saturday evening, the jury to award damages in opening an alley on the river in the rear of the brick stores on Main street, reported, and the council made an order confirming the award. Mr. Cummings appeared as the attorney for Thomas Lappin and M. C. Smith, and gave notice of an appeal from the award.

Among the accounts allowed was one of $114 for altering the engraved plate for the city bonds and coupons, and printing 161 copies.—The alteration was from the Valley to the Southern Wisconsin railroad, and the bonds printed are to be issued to the latter, under the consolidation arrangement.

The Elkhorn Reporter has commenced a personal and highly abusive warfare upon Judge Spooner, the republican candidate for congress in the first district. We have never heard Mr. Spooner's integrity and worth as a citizen called in question before, and presume his motive in this attack, at this time, will be sufficiently understood to be properly appreciated.

As a general thing when a man receives a nomination for office, no matter how fair his character may have stood before, he at once becomes the object of the vituperation, personal malice and low abuse of a certain class of editor who to say the least are no ornament to the profession. This has become so well understood that proper allowance is usually made, and no more of the charges are believed than come substantiated by better evidence. We do not believe such treatment will reduce Judge Spooner's vote, and it seems to us highly reprehensible that this wholesale defamation should be resorted to when even that poor excuse for slandering an upright citizen is not likely to be available.

WASHBURN, OR WASHBURN.—The Mineral Point Tribune settles the question in reference to the proper spelling of the name of the republican candidate for congress in this district, deciding "by authority" that the final e should be omitted. We were led the other way by observing how the Illinois papers published the name of his brother.

THE WEBSTER ESTATE.—The Boston Journal says, that Fletcher Webster has removed into the house of his late distinguished father at Marshfield. The estate offered for sale is near by, and was occupied by the son till lately.

The farm at Franklin, N. H., was advertised for sale by the administrators, in accordance with the usual form, to settle the estate. It may not go out of the family.

The Racine Democrat opens an article of some length with the following sentence:—

"Whenever the democratic party has lost ground it has done so from its fearless and uncompromising adherence to principle." The idea of the democracy in these days suffering for its devotion to principle is certainly a funny one.

The party was never burdened with that article, and in these days of its degeneracy, it is ridiculous to talk seriously of its possessing any. But even supposing the editor was not jesting when he uttered the above, it is contrary to one of the cardinal doctrines professed in the democratic creed, which is that the decision of the majority is right and that it is democratic to acquiesce in this decision. The above, however, places the people in the wrong and the democracy always right. Perhaps this idea will be incorporated into the new creed of the young democracy.

DODGE COUNTY BANK.—This institution is now fully organized and operations are already commenced, as will be seen by reference to an advertisement in to-day's paper. Its officers are J. A. Nebrag, president; Henry C. Frenz, cashier. A good lot has been purchased by these gentlemen on the south side of Main street, adjoining Hoyt & Smith's new store, on which they are erecting a substantial stone edifice for banking uses. Until this is completed, business will be transacted at the office of Dr. Smith.—Beaver Dam Republican.

A STRONG DEMOCRATIC COUNTY.—Only one whig vote was polled in Woodbury co., Iowa, at the recent election in that state.—Chicago Times.

And only seven votes were polled in the whole county, it having just been organized. We suppose our neighbor has no fault to find with the whig vote in the other counties of Iowa.—Chicago Journal.

STATE PRISON AT WAUPUN.—The editor of the Fond du Lac Union has recently spent an hour or two, of his own accord, in the state prison at Waupun, and gives the following account of the new edifice in progress there:

"The south wing of the prison, which comprises the building now contracted for, is 204 ft. in length, and 54 ft. in width, with an octagon tower at each corner of the south end, 45 ft. in circumference. It is four stories high, and stands upon a solid rock, with a foundation wall 4 ft. in thickness. The stone is of a superior quality of limestone, nicely cut and laid in courses. The building is now ready for the laying of the cornice, which is to be carved stone, and proportionate in dimensions to the size of the building. In the interior of this building and which is entirely disconnected from it, is a block of cells 172 ft. long, 22 ft. wide, and four stories high, containing 280 cells. This building also stands upon a rock, and is constructed of blocks of cut stone two feet in thickness.—The partition walls between the cells are of brick and the floors of flat stone, each is large enough to cover an entire cell. The corridors are supported by cast iron arms securely set in the stone walls, and are provided with wrought iron railings. Each cell is furnished with fresh air by means of a most approved ventilator. The roof is to be of tin, so that the building will be fire proof; indeed there is not combustible material enough in the whole of it to make a good sized bonfire.

This immense edifice will be completed within three weeks, being less than six months from the time the corner stone was laid. The rapidity and durability of the work are flattering testimonials of the energy and faithfulness of the contractor, Andrew Proudit, and his employees. When the whole establishment is completed, and our friend Starks moves into it with his regular boarders, a few hours can be spent in the state prison pleasantly and profitably. Visitors will always find the warden, or his deputies, pleased to see and conduct them through the establishment.

BY WALTER SCOTT.

The feast is o'er! Now brimming wine
In lordly cups is seen to shine
Before each guest the banquet hall
And allude thus to the crowded hall
As deep as when the herald's call
Thrills in the royal braid.

Then up arose the noble host,
And smiling cried, "A toast! a toast!
To all our ladies fair!"
Here, before all, I pledge the name
Of Stanton's proud and beautiful dame—
The Lady Dandylion!

Then to his feet each gallant sprung,
And joyous was the shout that rung,
As Stanley gave the word:
And every eye was turned on high
To see the loud and glorious cry,
"Till Stanley's voice was heard."

"Enough, enough," he smiling said,
And lowly bent his haughty head,
"What all my love their due,
Now each in turn must play his part,
And pledge the lady of his heart,
Like gallant knight and true!"

Then one by one each guest sprung up
And drained in turn the brimming cup,
And named the loved one's name;
And each, as hand on high he raised,
And lady's grace or beauty praised,
His constancy and fame.

"The now St. Leon's turn to rise;
On him were fixed those countless eyes—
A gallant knight was he;
Favored by some, admired by all,
Far famed in lady's favor, and hall,
The flower of chivalry."

St. Leon raised his kindling eye,
And light the sparkling eye on high;
"I drink to one," he said,
"Whose name never may depart,
Deep graven on this grateful heart,
Till memory be dead."

To one whose love for me shall last
When life's light has long been passed,
So holy 'tis and true,
To those whose love hath longer dwelt,
More deeply felt, more keenly felt,
Than any pledged to you."

Each guest started at the word,
And laid a hand upon his sword,
With fury-dashing eye;
And Stanley said, "Ye crave this name,
Proud knight, of this most peerless dame,
Whose love you count so high."

St. Leon paused, as if he would
Not breathe her name in careless mood
Thus lightly to another;
Then he took the reverence due,
And gently said, "My Mother!"

A SKETCH FOR NEW BEGINNERS IN LIFE.

BY AUSTIN C. BURDICK.

[Concluded from Saturday.]

At length the end of the quarter came round. The first bill paid was the rent, which amounted to thirty-one dollars. The next was the butcher's bill, which came to thirty-six dollars. Charles was astonished to see how the meat bill footed up. But when he saw how many steaks he had had at seventeen cents per pound the cause of wonder was at an end. Next he paid the baker's bill, which was thirteen dollars. When he came home in the evening he had paid all his bills except the grocery bill.

"Mr. Waldron sent in his bill to-day," he said, after supper.

"Ah did he? let me see it."

Hannah brought it, and Charles looked at it. He was astonished at its length, and when he came to look at the bottom of the column his face turned a shade pale. It footed up just sixty-five dollars—an average of five dollars per week!

"This is impossible!" he uttered as he gazed upon it. But he examined the different articles, and he could remember when he ordered them. Those things which cost "only a dollar," looked very innocent when viewed alone, but in the aggregate they had a different appearance.

"How much shall you lay up this quarter, Charles?" kindly asked the wife, as she came and leaned over her husband's shoulder, and parted the hair on his forehead and smoothed it back.

"How much shall I lay up?" he repeated. "Not much. Got the slate and let us reckon up." Charles was resolved to be frank about the matter, and let his wife know all.

The slate was brought. First Hannah put down one hundred and fifty-six dollars as the quarter's wages. Then came the rent, and the butcher and the baker.

"Now you may put down twelve dollars for this club," and twelve dollars for sundries, that means, cigars, tobacco, nuts, beer, soda, theatre tickets, and such like things. Now take all that from my quarter's wages, and see how much remains.

Hannah performed the sum, and gave fifty-two dollars as the result.

"Fifty-two dollars!" uttered Charles, sinking back in his chair, "and we have not bought our articles of clothing nor of furniture. Fifty-two dollars with which to pay sixty-five. There is thirteen dollars short this quarter, and I had meant to save thirty, at least."

"Well, it's no use to mourn over it," said the wife, in a cheerful tone, for she saw that her husband felt badly. "Let's commence again. There's nothing like trying, you know."

Foremost moments Charles remained silent. He gazed first upon the bill he held in his hand, then upon the figures on the slate, and then upon the floor. At last he spoke. There was a peculiar light in his eyes, and a flush upon his countenance.

"Hannah, I see where the trouble is and I must freely admit that I have been wrong. I had paid for everything as I bought it I should not have been wrong. I see it all now. I have not estimated the value of money as I ought. Let me once get up again to where I began, and I will do differently. I must step down to the store this evening and pay Mr. Waldron what I have, and the rest I will pay him when I am able."

"That matter can be easily settled," said Hannah, with a bright, happy look. "I have more than enough to make up the amount of that bill. It is money I had when we were married. Wait a moment."

Charles protested most earnestly against taking his wife's money, but she would listen to no argument on that subject. It was her will, and he must submit. So he went down and paid up the grocery bill, and on the way home he sold his gold chain for fourteen dollars. He felt happier when he got the old black cord once more about his neck, and he had money now to commence the quarter with.

On the next Monday morning the young man went into the meat store to send home a piece of beef for dinner.

"How much will you have?" asked the butcher.

"O, three or four—"

Charles got thus far, and then he stopped. He had always been in the habit of ordering an indefinite quantity, and leaving the butcher to cut it off at the highest figure, and charge the highest price; and then he remembered how much was usually wasted.

"Let me have two pounds," he said. He stopped as the scale weighed, and then paid for it.

When he went home at noon he found that his two pounds of beef had made enough, and there was none to waste. The next morning he went to the store. Mr. Waldron had some nice figs just come in, which he showed. They were only a shilling a pound. For a moment Charles hesitated, but as he remembered that he had got to pay for all he bought he concluded not to take them. He found that things were not so enticing when it required cash to get them as when the payment could be postponed. He paid for what he bought and went his way; and thus things went on through the week. When it came Saturday night he knew that all the money in his pocket was his own, after deducting the rent. That evening he went over to the market with Wilkins, and bought as much meat and vegetables as he thought would last him through the week. He found that he had made a saving of at least twenty per cent. by this operation, and when the opportunity offered he made the same saving in other matters.

At the end of that quarter Charles Matthews did not have to get any state. He paid his house rent, and then he found that he had thirty-five dollars left in his pocket. That was all his—he did not owe a penny of it.

"Ah, Hannah," said he, as he held the money in his hand and looked at it, "now I see how easy it is for a man to be wrong and his wife right. This money all comes from paying as I go along. It is very easy and simple to say—'Just charge it,' and a man can easily buy things under such circumstances, but when the day of reckoning comes these three simple words, that sound so innocent when spoken, are found to be costly things. I could not have believed that a man would purchase so many more useless articles simply because he could have them charged. But I see it now, and if I refused to follow your advice at first, I have gained experience enough to lead me to follow it the more explicitly now."

Charles Matthews never again allowed himself to be led away by the credit system; but he followed the cash rule punctually, and the consequence has been that he can not only now buy any quantity of produce, wood, coal, etc., at cheap cash prices, but he has cut off the expense of house-rent, for he owns a snug little cottage in the suburbs, and it is all paid for.

A RUSH FOR SHILLING LANDS.—A correspondent of the Missouri Republican, writing from Shawanostown, under date of September 21st, gives the following account of the rush at the land office in that place, for lands under the graduation bill:

The "graduation" or "hit" land act, went into operation on Monday last, and early in the morning our quiet little place showed signs of much excitement, and at 8 o'clock in the morning it was determined to form a line, take the name of all persons present, and then call them up in rotation. About 125 were on hand; on Tuesday, about 250; Wednesday, 350; and today, 600. About fifty entries are made daily, taking about 12,000 acres of land, and I presume the excitement will continue till all the land in the district, worth a "hit," is taken; but whether it is all taken for "actual settlement and cultivation," I do not pretend to say. Every man puts his own construction upon the oath, and it depends much upon the material their consciences are made of. They all seem to think that they are entitled to it, and "Uncle Sam" is rich enough to stand it. It will help the country in way of taxes, and it is as well to let it go. I noticed in the crowd several ladies, some who have lost their "loves," and others who have never found them, but are willing to have a farm. I also noticed some of the sons of Africa.

ANOTHER BARABOO CASE.—At North Prairie, in the town of Geneseo, on the night of the 21st inst., a number of young women broke into a grocery and destroyed a quantity of liquor, broke decanters, tumblers, &c. The circumstances relating to this affair, are as follows:

At Mr. —, several young women, were engaged during the day, in picking hops. At night there was a "jollification," or as the old people used to say, a spree, and as a matter of course, a goodly number of the neighboring lads were on hand to take care of the lasses. During the festive scene the "fair ones" concluded that a certain grocery in the neighborhood should be visited, and some of the commodities disposed of in "Baraboo style." The ladies sallied out en masse, armed with suitable weapons to accomplish the grand design. The gentlemen accompanied them as a body-guard, to the scene of action, and took positions so as to protect the besieging forces from any interruption. The owner of the property attempted to drive off the intruders, but was kept off by the lads, until the women had wreaked vengeance on the liquor, then the whole besieging forces marched away, the male portion acting as a rear guard.—Waukesha Democrat.

HUMAN BODIES FOUND AT SEA.—Captain Klock together, of the ship Hindoo, which arrived at this port a few days since from Bremen, met with quite an accident on the passage over. When forty days at sea, the weather being clear, an open boat was despatched in the distance, with, as it was supposed, no one in it. The captain immediately bore down upon it, when, on examination, it was found to contain four human bodies, or, in other words skeletons, as the flesh had been entirely stripped from their bones. The boat was filled with water, but being of a light, airy structure, had continued to float for days, perhaps months, upon the turbulent deep. In the boat were a large number of fish, which no doubt preyed upon the bodies. A few remnants of clothing were found in the frail bark, but so much torn as to preclude the possibility of telling whether they belonged to seamen or passengers. There can be no doubt that the bodies were those of some of the many unfortunate who were wrecked in some one of the missing vessels. Is it not probable that they were a part of the crew or passengers of the missing steamer City of Glasgow? Captain Klock together still retains the boat. It can be seen on board his ship at Chase's wharf. The remains of the bodies, on the arrival of the ship at this port were decently interred.—Baltimore Patriot.

BYWARD TAYLOR.—We learn by a private note from Mr. Nichols, of Cleveland, to whom Mr. Taylor was represented as having furnished himself out for the lecture season, that the report, as we surmised, is not true, though it had some foundation.

Mr. Nichols says in the Cleveland Herald of the 27th:

I beg leave to state that there is no engagement between us that will prevent his lecturing as last season, before such societies. It is true I am to accompany Mr. T. the coming fall and winter, commencing October 15th, at Montreal his first lecture. But it is the wish and expectation of Mr. T. that in all cities where societies are established, to lecture before them—and where there are no societies established, of course other arrangements will be made. This communication is simply to place Mr. T. in a right position before the literary societies of the west, that they may not be prevented from extending invitations to him to deliver lectures before them.

17th SENATORIAL DISTRICT CONVENTION.

At the same time and place above designated in the respective towns and wards for meetings, to choose delegates to the county convention, the Republican electors of the wards of the city of Janesville, and of the towns in this county comprised in the 17th senatorial district, are requested to select an equal number of delegates to which they are entitled under the above appointment in the county convention, to represent them in a senatorial convention hereby called at the Court House in Janesville, on THURSDAY the 12th day of October next at 11 o'clock, A. M., to nominate a candidate for senator.

By order of the County Committee.

Rock County Whig Convention.

The whigs of Rock county who are willing to be known as men who have not lost their identity with the party, ("their personal character, political associations and private conduct," being vouched for, inasmuch as they are whigs) are requested to meet at their respective places of holding their elections, on Tuesday Oct. 10th inst., at 2 o'clock P. M. for the purpose of appointing delegates to above called convention, hereby called at the Court House in Janesville, the 14th day of Oct. inst. at 10 o'clock P. M., to nominate a whig county ticket.

By order of Committee.

For telegraphic news see third page.

WING COUNTY CONVENTION.—A call for a whig county convention, to nominate a county ticket, appears in our columns this morning.—We think it would have been better introduced under the sanction of some responsible names, or if it had stated by what committee it purports to be called. To-morrow we shall have comments upon the movement it contemplates.

PROCEEDINGS OF THE COMMON COUNCIL.—At the meeting of the council Saturday evening, the jury to award damages in opening an alley on the river in the rear of the brick stores on Main street, reported, and the council made an order confirming the award. Mr. Cummings appeared as the attorney for Thomas Lappin and M. C. Smith, and gave notice of an appeal from the award.

Among the accounts allowed was one of $114 for altering the engraved plate for the city bonds and coupons, and printing 161 copies.—The alteration was from the Valley to the Southern Wisconsin railroad, and the bonds printed are to be issued to the latter, under the consolidation arrangement.

The Elkhorn Reporter has commenced a personal and highly abusive warfare upon Judge Spooner, the republican candidate for congress in the first district. We have never heard Mr. Spooner's integrity and worth as a citizen called in question before, and presume no motive or this attack, at this time, will be sufficiently understood to be properly appreciated. As a general thing when a man receives a nomination for office, no matter how fair his character may have stood before, he at once becomes the object of the vituperation, personal malice and low abuse of a certain class of editor who to say the least are no ornament to the profession. This has become so well understood that proper allowance is usually made, and no more of the charges are believed than come substantiated by better evidence. We do not believe such treatment will reduce Judge Spooner's vote, and it seems to us highly reprehensible that this wholesale defamation should be reported to when even that poor excuse for slanderer an upright citizen is not likely to be affected.

WASHINGTON, or WASHBURN.—The Mineral Point Tribune settles the question in reference to the proper spelling of the name of the republican candidate for congress in this district, deciding "by authority" that the final e should be omitted. We were led the other way by observing how the Illinois papers published the name of his brother.

THE WEBSTER ESTATE.—The Boston Journal says, that Fletcher Webster has removed into the house of his late distinguished father at Marshfield. The estate offered for sale is nearly by, and was occupied by the son till lately.

The farm at Franklin, N. H., was advertised for sale by the administrators, in accordance with the usual form, to settle the estate. It may not go out of the family.

The Racine Democrat opens an article of some length with the following sentence:—"Whenever the democratic party has lost ground it has done so from its fearless and uncompromising adherence to principle." The idea of the democracy in these days suffering for its devotion to principle is certainly a funny one. The party was never burdened with that article, and in these days of its degeneracy, it is ridiculous to talk seriously of its possessing any. But even supposing the editor was not jesting when he uttered the above, it is contrary to one of the cardinal doctrines professed in the democratic creed, which is that the decision of the majority is right and that it is democratic to acquiesce in this decision. The above, however, places the people in the wrong and the democracy always right. Perhaps this idea will be incorporated into the new creed of the young democracy.

DODGE COUNTY BANK.—This institution is now fully organized and operations are already commenced, as will be seen by reference to an advertisement in to-day's paper. Its officers are J. A. Nohig, president; Henry O. Frenz, cashier. A good lot has been purchased by these gentlemen on the south side of Main street, adjoining Hoyt & Smith's new store, on which they are erecting a substantial stone edifice for banking uses. Until this is completed, business will be transacted at the office of Dr. Smith.—Beaver Dam Republican.

A STRONG DEMOCRATIC COUNTY.—Only one whig vote was polled in Woodbury co., Iowa, at the recent election in that state.—Chicago Times.

And only seven votes were polled in the whole county, it having just been organized.

We suppose our neighbor has no fault to find with the whig vote in the other counties of Iowa.—Chicago Journal.

STATE PRISON AT WAUPUN.—The editor of the Fond du Lac Union has recently spent an hour or two, of his own accord, in the state prison at Waupun, and gives the following account of the new edifice in progress there:

"The south wing of the prison, which comprises the building now contracted for, is 201 ft. in length, and 54 ft. in width, with an octagon tower at each corner of the south end, 45 ft. in circumference. It is four stories high, and stands upon a solid rock, with a foundation wall 4 ft. in thickness. The stone is of a superior quality of limestone, nicely cut and laid in courses. The building is now ready for the laying of the cornice, which is to be carved stone, and proportionate in dimensions to the size of the building. In the interior of this building and which is entirely disconnected from it, is a block of cells 172 ft. long, 22 ft. wide, and four stories high, containing 280 cells. This building also stands upon a rock, and is constructed of blocks of cut stone two feet in thickness. The partition walls between the cells are of brick and the floors of flat stone, each is large enough to cover an entire cell. The corridors are supported by cast iron arms securely set in the stone walls, and are provided with wrought iron railings. Each cell is furnished with fresh air by means of a most approved ventilator. The roof is of bit of tin, so that the building will be fire proof; indeed there is not combustible material enough in the whole of it to make a good sized bonfire.

This immense edifice will be completed within three weeks, being less than six months from the time the corner stone was laid. The rapidity and durability of the work are flattering testimonials of the energy and faithfulness of the contractor, Andrew Froudlit, and his employees. When the whole establishment is completed, and our friend Starks moves into it with his regular boarders, a few hours can be spent in the state prison pleasantly and profitably. Visitors will always find the warden, or his deputies, pleased to see and conduct them through the establishment.

BY WALTER SCOTT.

The feast is over! Now brimming wine
In lordly cups is seen to shine
And all the while the crowd of hall
As deep as when the herald's call
Thrills in the royal braid.

Then up arose the noble host,
And smiling cried, "A toast! a toast!
To all our ladies fair!"
Here, before all, I pledge the name
Of Stanton's proud and beautiful dame—
The Lady Dandylion!

Then to his feet each gallant sprung,
And joyous was the shout that rung,
As Stanley gave the word:
And every eye was turned on high
To see the loud and glorious cry,
"Till Stanley's voice was heard."

"Enough, enough," he smiling said,
And lowly bent his haughty head,
"What all my love their due,
Now each in turn must play his part,
And pledge the lady of his heart,
Like gallant knight and true!"

Then one by one each guest sprung up
And drained in turn the brimming cup,
And named the loved one's name;
And each, as hand on high he raised,
And lady's grace or beauty praised,
His constancy and fame.

"The now St. Leon's turn to rise;
On him were fixed those countless eyes—
A gallant knight was he;
Favored by some, admired by all,
Far famed in lady's favor, and hall,
The flower of chivalry."

St. Leon raised his kindling eye,
And light the sparkling eye on high;
"I drink to one," he said,
"Whose name never may depart,
Deep graven on this grateful heart,
Till memory be dead."

To one whose love for me shall last
When life's light has long been passed,
So holy 'tis and true,
To those whose love hath longer dwelt,
More deeply felt, more keenly felt,
Than any pledged to you."

Each guest started at the word,
And laid a hand upon his sword,
With fury-dashing eye;
And Stanley said, "Ye crave this name,
Proud knight, of this most peerless dame,
Whose love you count so high."

St. Leon paused, as if he would
Not breathe her name in careless mood
Thus lightly to another;
Then bent his noble head, as though
To give that word the reverence due,
And gently said, "My Motive!"

A SKETCH FOR NEW BEGINNERS IN LIFE.

BY AUSTIN C. BURDICK.

[Concluded from Saturday.]

At length the end of the quarter came round. The first bill paid was the rent, which amounted to thirty-one dollars. The next was the butcher's bill, which came to thirty-six dollars. Charles was astonished to see how the meat bill footed up. But when he saw how many steaks he had had at seventeen cents per pound the cause of wonder was at an end. Next he paid the baker's bill, which was thirteen dollars. When he came home in the evening he had paid all his bills except the grocery bill.

"Mr. Waldron sent in his bill to-day," he said, after supper.

"Ah did he? Let me see it."

Hannah brought it, and Charles looked at it. He was astonished at its length, and when he came to look at the bottom of the column his face turned a shade pale. It footed up just sixty-five dollars—an average of five dollars per week!

"This is impossible!" he uttered as he gazed upon it. But he examined the different articles, and he could remember when he ordered them. Those things which cost "only a dollar," looked very innocent when viewed alone, but in the aggregate they had a different appearance.

"How much shall you lay up this quarter, Charles?" kindly asked the wife, as she came and leaned over her husband's shoulder, and parted the hair on his forehead and smoothed it back.

"How much shall I lay up?" he repeated. "Not much. Got the state and let us reckon up." Charles was resolved to be frank about the matter, and let his wife know all.

The state was brought. First Hannah put down one hundred and fifty-six dollars as the quarter's wages. Then came the rent, and the butcher and the baker.

"Now you may put down twelve dollars for this club," and twelve dollars for sundries, that means, cigars, tobacco, nuts, beer, soda, theatre tickets, and such like things. Now take all that from my quarter's wages, and see how much remains.

Hannah performed the sum, and gave fifty-two dollars as the result.

"Fifty-two dollars!" uttered Charles, sinking back in his chair, "and we have not bought our articles of clothing nor of furniture. Fifty-two dollars with which to pay sixty-five. There is thirteen dollars short this quarter, and I had meant to save that, at least."

"Well, it's no use to mourn over it," said the wife, in a cheerful tone, for she saw that her husband felt badly. "Let's commence again. There's nothing like trying, you know."

Foremost moments Charles remained silent. He gazed first upon the bill he held in his hand, then upon the figures on the slate, and then upon the floor. At last he spoke. There was a peculiar light in his eyes, and a flush upon his countenance.

"Hannah, I see where the trouble is and I must freely admit that I have been wrong. I had paid for everything as I bought it I should not have been wrong. I see it all now. I have not estimated the value of money as I ought. Let me once get up again to where I began, and I will do differently. I must step down to the store this evening and pay Mr. Waldron what I have, and the rest I will pay him when I am able."

"That matter can be easily settled," said Hannah, with a bright, happy look. "I have more than enough to make up the amount of that bill. It is money I had when we were married. Wait a moment."

Charles protested most earnestly against taking his wife's money, but she would listen to no argument on that subject. It was her will, and he must submit. So he went down and paid up the grocery bill, and on the way home he sold his gold chain for fourteen dollars. He felt happier when he got the old black cord once more about his neck, and he had money now to commence the quarter with.

On the next Monday morning the young man went into the meat store to send home a piece of beef for dinner.

"How much will you have?" asked the butcher.

"O, three or four—"

Charles got thus far, and then he stopped. He had always been in the habit of ordering an indefinite quantity, and leaving the butcher to cut it off at the highest figure, and charge the highest price; and then he remembered how much was usually wasted.

"Let me have two pounds," he said. He stopped as the scale weighed, and then paid for it.

When he went home at noon he found that his two pounds of beef had made enough, and there was none to waste. The next morning he went to the store. Mr. Waldron had some nice figs just come in, which he showed. They were only a shilling a pound. For a moment Charles hesitated, but as he remembered that he had got to pay for all he bought he concluded not to take them. He found that things were not so enticing when it required cash to get them as when the payment could be postponed. He paid for what he bought and went his way; and thus things went on through the week. When it came Saturday night he knew that all the money in his pocket was his own, after deducting the rent. That evening he went over to the market with Wilkins, and bought as much meat and vegetables as he thought would last him through the week. He found that he had made a saving of at least twenty per cent. by this operation, and when the opportunity offered he made the same saving in other matters.

At the end of that quarter Charles Matthews did not have to get any state. He paid his house rent, and then he found that he had thirty-five dollars left in his pocket. That was all his—he did not owe a penny of it.

"Ah, Hannah," said he, as he held the money in his hand and looked at it, "now I see how easy it is for a man to be wrong and his wife right. This money all comes from paying as I go along. It is very easy and simple to say—'Just charge it,' and a man can easily buy things under such circumstances, but when the day of reckoning comes these three simple words, that sound so innocent when spoken, are found to be costly things. I could not have believed that a man would purchase so many more useless articles simply because he could have them charged. But I see it now, and if I refused to follow your advice at first, I have gained experience enough to lead me to follow it the more explicitly now."

Charles Matthews never again allowed himself to be led away by the credit system; but he followed the cash rule punctually, and the consequence has been that he can not only now buy any quantity of produce, wood, coal, etc., at cheap cash prices, but he has cut off the expense of house-rent, for he owns a snug little cottage in the suburbs, and it is all paid for.

A RUSH FOR SHILLING LANDS.—A correspondent of the Missouri Republican, writing from Shawanostown, under date of September 21st, gives the following account of the rush at the land office in that place, for lands under the graduation bill:

The "graduation" or "hit" land act, went into operation on Monday last, and early in the morning our quiet little place showed signs of much excitement, and at 8 o'clock in the morning it was determined to form a line, take the name of all persons present, and then call them up in rotation. About 125 were on hand; on Tuesday, about 250; Wednesday, 350; and today, 600. About fifty entries are made daily, taking about 12,000 acres of land, and I presume the excitement will continue till all the land in the district, worth a "hit," is taken; but whether it is all taken for "actual settlement and cultivation," I do not pretend to say. Every man puts his own construction upon the oath, and it depends much upon the material their consciences are made of. They all seem to think that they are entitled to it, and "Uncle Sam" is rich enough to stand it. It will help the country in way of taxes, and it is as well to let it go. I noticed in the crowd several ladies, some who have lost their "loves," and others who have never found them, but are willing to have a farm. I also noticed some of the sons of Africa.

ANOTHER BARABOO CASE.—At North Prairie, in the town of Geneseo, on the night of the 21st inst., a number of young women broke into a grocery and destroyed a quantity of liquor, broke decanters, tumblers, &c. The circumstances relating to this affair, are as follows:

At Mr. —, several young women, were engaged during the day, in picking hops. At night there was a "jollification," or as the old people used to say, a spree, and as a matter of course, a goodly number of the neighboring lads were on hand to take care of the lasses. During the festive scene the "fair ones" concluded that a certain grocery in the neighborhood should be visited, and some of the commodities disposed of in "Baraboo style." The ladies sallied out en masse, armed with suitable weapons to accomplish the grand design. The gentlemen accompanied them as a body-guard, to the scene of action, and took positions so as to protect the besieging forces from any interruption. The owner of the property attempted to drive off the intruders, but was kept off by the lads, until the women had wreaked vengeance on the liquor, then the whole besieging forces marched away, the male portion acting as a rear guard.—Waukesha Democrat.

HUMAN BODIES FOUND AT SEA.—Captain Klock together, of the ship Hindoo, which arrived at this port a few days since from Bremen, met with quite an accident on the passage over. When forty days at sea, the weather being clear, an open boat was despatched in the distance, with, as it was supposed, no one in it. The captain immediately bore down upon it, when, on examination, it was found to contain four human bodies, or, in other words skeletons, as the flesh had been entirely stripped from their bones. The boat was filled with water, but being of a light, airy structure, had continued to float for days, perhaps months, upon the turbulent deep. In the boat were a large number of fish, which no doubt preyed upon the bodies. A few remnants of clothing were found in the frail bark, but so much torn as to preclude the possibility of telling whether they belonged to seamen or passengers. There can be no doubt that the bodies were those of some of the many unfortunate who were wrecked in some one of the missing vessels. Is it not probable that they were a part of the crew or passengers of the missing steamer City of Glasgow? Captain Klock together still retains the boat. It can be seen on board his ship at Chase's wharf. The remains of the bodies, on the arrival of the ship at this port were decently interred.—Baltimore Patriot.

BYWARD TAYLOR.—We learn by a private note from Mr. Nichols, of Cleveland, to whom Mr. Taylor was represented as having furnished himself out for the lecture season, that the report, as we surmised, is not true, though it had some foundation.

Mr. Nichols says in the Cleveland Herald of the 27th:

I beg leave to state that there is no engagement between us that will prevent his lecturing as last season, before such societies. It is true I am to accompany Mr. T. the coming fall and winter, commencing October 15th, at Montreal his first lecture. But it is the wish and expectation of Mr. T. that in all cities where societies are established, to lecture before them, and where there are no societies established, of course other arrangements will be made. This communication is simply to place Mr. T. in a right position before the literary societies of the west, that they may not be prevented from extending invitations to him to deliver lectures before them.
